

Hardman at the Palace of Westminster

Friday 4th October 2019, 1-5pm
Jubilee Room, Palace of Westminster

We are pleased to invite you to a symposium on Hardman's contribution to metalwork and stained glass in the Palace of Westminster. The metalwork and stained glass in the New Palace of Westminster was produced by generations of the Birmingham-based Hardman family, who worked from Pugin's gothic designs. This afternoon of talks will explore their working relationship with A.W.N. Pugin, the design process and their legacy in the Palace today.

The programme will include presentations from:

Neil Phillips, Introduction to Hardman and his relationship with Pugin

Jamie Jacobs, University of Kent Pugin and Hardman's metalwork in the Palace

Dr Jim Cheshire, University of Lincoln Stained Glass in the Palace

Dr Mark Collins, Palace of Westminster Hardman's designs in the Parliamentary Archives

Refreshments will be provided.

Tickets are limited and on first come, first serve basis. There is a waiting list for this event so if you can no longer attend please let us know so we can reallocate your ticket.

If you would like to attend, please RSVP to Emily Spary at sparye@parliament.uk. Please inform us of any access and mobility issues.

Please note, this event may be cancelled at short notice due to Parliamentary business.

